Curriculum & Instruction, Accountability, Professional Development

1b. How often does this person meet with school system executive leadership (e.g., superintendent, assistant superintendent, chief financial officer)?

Daily

1c. How will this person help sustain paid residencies in the school system after the conclusion of this grant?

The assistant superintendent will lead Robinson ISD’s efforts to sustain paid residencies after the grant concludes by implementing the district’s annual financial commitment to the partnership and stewarding allotment funds to grow and maintain the program. As part of the collaborative team that sets yearly financial goals they will ensure the district’s continuing investment in a strong homegrown teacher pipeline and pursue additional funding as needed. The assistant superintendent will convene governance meetings oversee partnership coordination with institutions such as Baylor University and ensure program fidelity through regular check-ins and support for residents. In addition the assistant superintendent will continue to hire and supervise a part-time residency coordinator who will handle day-to-day logistics develop governance agendas and monitor resident progress and commitment to Robinson ISD—thereby preserving program quality and increasing the likelihood that residents transition into long-term district positions.

1d. How will the school system support this role in the event of turnover? Who else will have knowledge and skills for this work?

Robinson ISD will ensure continuity if turnover occurs by distributing knowledge and responsibilities across multiple leaders. The residency coordinator campus principals and core curriculum specialists all possess the skills and experience needed to sustain the role; principals and curriculum specialists participate in hiring support residents on their campuses and join governance meetings so they are familiar with program operations and expectations. The assistant superintendent will maintain institutional memory by overseeing the partnership and personnel transitions and the residency coordinator's documented processes and established partnership with the university will be preserved and handed off as needed. Together these shared responsibilities written procedures and active partner relationships will enable a smooth transition and uninterrupted support for residents.
